ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A plurality of windows are contracted in scale and presented on the same display without interfering with a main display window. By dragging and dropping any contracted window with a mouse, the contracted window is displayed on a sub display in an expanded scale. Functions such as voice recognition are assigned to any contracted window.